

HIS EYES GROW WEARY IN SEARCH FOR SHADOW

Prophet With Title to His Name Proclaims Near End of Winter.

Ground Hog Emerges From Lair Under Skies Heavily Clouded, and Will Not Return.

If Candemas day be fair and bright, Winter will have another flight;
If on Candemas day it be shower and rain, Winter has gone to stay again.
That sterling weather prophet, Prof.
Arctomys Monax, better known among his intimate friends as "Old Ground Hog," may issue forth from his laboratory today in search of the sun until his deep-set eyes grow weary looking for his shadow.

He won't find it.
The weather itself is against him; wagers varying from 10 cents to as many dollars are against him, and last, but far from least, from the fact that the United States weather bureau is against him. Rain, mingled with sleet and snow, is forecast for the next thirty-six hours, and the temperature probably going down to 25 degrees tonight.

No Chance for the "Professor."

"There is not the slightest chance of the ground hog seeing his shadow today," declared the local forecaster, in a voice free from doubt.

But out at his home, 1 Ground Hog square, Prof. Monax, aided and abetted by Mrs. Monax, Miss Fay Monax and little Buddy Monax, will spend an anxious day. Just where, in the process of evolution, the ground hog family got its hunch to look for its shadow on February 2 of each year no human has ever been wise enough to explain, and Prof. Monax himself had not made any statement at the time of going to press.
The fact remains, however, that about January 1 Dr. Monax began to get nervous concerning his shadow. He got terribly riled yesterday, it is understood from authentic sources, apparently the greater part of the day papering up and down in front of his house "practicing up" for the "big day"—February 2.

He saw his shadow all right, but that was yesterday. The world is governed by unalterable rules and the law of the ground hog-and-his-shadow is as immutable as the law of gravitation.
Dr. Ground Hog could see his shadow six times running yesterday, and it would have made no difference. Such is the edict.

Provisions of the Law.

Because the law in human terms is:
If the weather is bad on Candemas day it means the end of winter. If the sun shines it means that only half of winter is past.

Stated in ground hog language: If you see your shadow February 2, good night, people! If you do not see so much as the shadow of your bushy tail, ho for the great white way!

To leave Prof. Monax, better known as "Old Ground Hog," looking for his shadow and get back to Washington, D. C., the National Capital, it looks like winter is ended, it must be confessed. If there is any truth in the Candemas superstition. The popular idea that the worse the weather February 2, the better the weather which will follow comes down to the present generation from times so ancient that its origin is lost.

Is Proclaimed in Proverbs.

Many old poems repeat the superstition, and there are proverbs galore about it. Old German proverbs, it is declared, lament the sight of the sun February 2.

Just how the ground hog got mixed up in the superstition is hard to say, but mixed up in it he is, in the United States, any way, and he has become one of the most pleasant and generally believed myths anent the weather.

Candemas Day Observed in All Catholic Churches

With Elaborate Services

Catholic churches throughout the world, with the exception of the Greek Catholics, whose calendar does not coincide with that of the Roman church—today observed Candemas, the ceremony of blessing the candles to be used in church ceremonies and services. The event is one of the most ancient of religious observances, February 2, or the day corresponding to that date in ancient calendars, having been observed in pagan times, when candles were borne in procession in honor of Ceres, the Greek goddess of agriculture, and the fruits and grains of the earth.

Especially in Rome itself today the churches are a blaze of light in honor of Candemas, though special masses and other ceremonies are held in all Roman Catholic churches annually on his date.

The day also marks the feast of the purification of the Blessed Virgin, which occurred, according to the Jewish custom, forty days after the birth of Christ.
On this day the infant Jesus was brought to the temple in Jerusalem for his presentation in the house of God. According to ancient tradition, also on this day Joseph, Simon and Anna are said to have walked around the temple in Jerusalem bearing lighted candles, signifying that the promised "light of the world" had at last appeared.

In another connection Candemas also marks the conclusion of all Christmas gaeties. On this day all evergreens, holly, mistletoe, hollyhocks, and other Christmas decorations that have remained in place since Christmas must be taken down and burned. In older days, also, the yule log was extinguished on Candemas day, care being taken to preserve a small portion of the log with which to kindle next year's yule log. The poet Herrick in this connection wrote:

Part must be kept with which to kindle
The Christmas log next year, And where 'tis safely kept, the brand (as do no mischief) here.

SINKS IN FEW MINUTES AFTER BOILERS EXPLODE

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., February 2.—
The Sun Brown, a Pittsburgh, Pa., tugboat, sank within a few minutes after her boilers exploded, in the Ohio river opposite this city, at 11:05 o'clock today.

Benjamin Williams, mate of the tow-boat, a survivor, says there were thirty-four persons on board the boat. Of these twenty have been accounted for.

One of the Largest in Service.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., February 2.—The Sun Brown was one of the largest tow-boats in the Monongahela River. Consolidated Coal and Coke Company's fleet, it was commanded by Capt. Lou Fleet. It was carrying a load of coal, and was being towed by the tugboat, and his second officer was Benjamin Williams, also of Pittsburgh.
The tugboat was towed by the tugboat men in this vicinity.

Why Tolerate Catarrh?
You have noticed, no doubt, that any cold aggravates nasal catarrh, and the flow of mucous amazes you (that such objectionable matter could be so abundant in your head). To ignore this catarrh when the cold subsides is wrong, because it continues to annoy and injure the delicate linings of the nasal passages and close them up.

To correct catarrh, cleanse the nostrils frequently with a solution of warm water and salt, insert vaseline on retiring, and take a spoonful of Scott's Emulsion after meals for one month. Scott's acts through the blood to feed the tissues, and constantly dissolving glycerine to check the inflammation and heal the sensitive membranes.

Scott's is pleasant to take.
